CASE STUDY – BRANCHING OUT

Branching Out is Tameside and Glossop's under 19's drug and alcohol service. We work with young people who are using or at risk of using drugs and alcohol to provide harm reduction focused advice, support and targeted interventions.

Branching Out has 3 kiosks, one of which was purchased by the Ashton Healthy Living Project and the second, funded through a one-off grant from the local PCT. We have set up a loan system so that the kiosks can be used by local organisations in settings accessed by young people and community members.

The Drugs Box® is promoted through local networks and community newsletters, agencies book the kiosk for use on specific dates and attend a brief information session on how to use the resource, they return it at the end of their loan and provide us with feedback on how useful they feel the resource was. Agencies have used the kiosks as part of a structured input with groups or as a standalone information point at community events.

Being able to offer the use of The Drugs Box® enhances the capacity of Branching Out as we are able to have a presence at events that the service is not able to attend. The resource allows quick and easy access to drugs information which is credible and unthreatening to users. Because The Drugs Box® tracks the information that is accessed, it enables Branching Out to feed data into service improvement and report back to commissioners on findings.

The opportunity to offer The Drugs Box® to partner agencies has allowed Branching Out to enhance their partnership links and be responsive to requests for appropriate input from the service.
